Top 5 Countries for Education

Today's youth will in coming years be governing the world. Their thoughts and actions will be shaped by what they know and have experienced, making education, in many ways, one of the best predictors of a nation's future success.

The 2020 Best Countries for Education are ranked based on a perception-based global survey, which used a compilation of scores from three equally weighted country attributes: having a well-developed public education system, whether people would consider attending university there and if that country provides a top quality education.

A mix of federally run and decentralized education systems rank highest. These are the top five.
